AQUEDUCT ERRORS.

Gov. Hill Throws a Bomb in the Legislature.

He Recommends the Abolishment of the Present Board.

And Favors the Creation of a New Commission.

Two Other Messages and a Row in Both Houses.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

ALBANY, July 19. Gov. Hill carried consternation among the Republicans to-day by sendsng in three more messages. One dealt with the Aqueduct frauds, a second recommended an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State, a third provided for a Constitutional Convention, while a fourth defined what was meant by the Penal Institution of the State.

The Governor's first message ran as fol-STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, July 18, 1888.

ALRANY, July 18, 1883.
To the Legislature:

In my communication to the Legislature of July 17, 1885, I recommended for your consideration "the proper employment of convicts in the penal institutions of the State." This language is broad and was intended to cover all institutions where prisoners are confined for orime. I am informed that it is claimed by some members of your honorable body that the words "penall institutions of the State "only include the State prisons. I do not think that the words will fairly bear so narrow a construction, but in order to remove all questions as to the power of the Legislature at this session to dispose of the whole subject, I hereby recommend for your consideration at the present extraordinary session the proper employment of the convicts in the State prisons, penitentaries, reformatories, houses of refuge, industrial schools, jalls and other institutions where persons convicted of crime are confined for punishment. It is desirable that the whole subject of convict labor in the State should be disposed of in one clear and comprehensive bill.

[The converse of the C To the Legislature :

DAVID B. HILL. The second and third messages of the Governor were as follows;

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, July 18, 1888. To the Legislature :

To the Legislature:

I recommend for your consideration at the present extraordinary session the following subjects:

First—An enumeration of the inhabitants of this State, as required by the Constitution.

Second—A measure providing for a constitutional convention in pursuance of the Constitution and in obedience to the will of the people expressed in 1886.

The measage was laid on the table and ordered printed.

Here are the Governor's views on the aqueduct steal.

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, July 18, 1888.

To the Legislature:
By chapter 490 of the laws of 1883 the Legisla-By chapter 490 of the laws of 1883 the Legisla-ture provided for the construction of an aqueduct for the city of New York, and designated the Mayor, the Comptroller and the Commissioner of Puolle Works of said city and three citizens named in the bill as a Board of Aqueduct Commissioners to have charge of such construction. The act of 1883 was amended by chapter 337 of the laws of 1885, whereby the Mayor and the Comptroller were comitted as Commissioners, and three persons, to be named by the Gouercor, were to be appointed as additional Commissioners and confirmed by the Senate, and thereafter three persons were so ap-pointed and confirmed, and are serving at the pres-ent time.

pointed and confirmed, and are serving at the present time.

The present Aqueduct Commission, therefore, consists of one official of the city, to wit: the Commissioner of Public Works, who is a member exomice, and six citizens, three named in the act of 1885, and three appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate under the act of 1886.

I am advised that it has suppared upon the investigation now pending in regard to the Aqueduct and other matters in the city of New York that the Board as now constituted has not been a harmonious body, but that for some time there has existed much discord and a lack of proper co-operation among its members, whereby public interests have suffered in some degree.

I am also informed that two or more of the Commissioners have had ousiness relations with some of the confractors or sub-confractors, thereby committing an impropriety, even if nothing more subjecting them to just criticism and necessarily commistrassing them in the proper discharge of their emparrassing them in the proper discharge of their

It is claimed that other matters have been shown It is claimed that other matters have been shown affecting the letting of contracts and the performance thereof to the detriment of the interests of the city. Of all these matters, however, I have no accurate or official knowledge, as the investigation, which is exparts, is still pending, and no report thereof has yet been presented, and under such circumstances it would be manifestly improper for me to express an opimon thereon, especially in view of the fact that if the charges alleged against the Commissioners are finally established they are liable to removal, and proceedings for such purpose would unquestionably be stimulated. The augustion which I desire to make concerning the Aqueduct Commissioners is not, therefore, based upon any presumption of the trath of the allegations made against them, but is founded upon an inherent offect or mistaken policy in the two statutes in question creating the commission arising out of the improper manner in which the waole commission was created.

out of the impreser manner in which the whole commission was created.

It must be conceded that both of the statutes violated the principle of 'Home Rule," which has come to be regarded as assential to the proper government of municipalities.

That general principle I have usually endeavored to enforce, and whenever a departure from it has been permitted I am satisfied a mistake has been made.

The statute of 1888, approved by my predecessor, named three commissioners in the bill itself. That was unwise. If any other than officials were to be designated those persons should have been selected by the local authorities and not by the legislature. Here the first mistake was made.

This statute of 1886 continued the error, but, while not naming the three additional commissioners in the bill, it empowered the Governor of the State to select them and the Senate to confirm them. This was likewise a mistake. The auditional Jommissioners should have been appointed by the Mayor is the state of the sta signers should have been appointed by the Mayor of New Tork.

It is submitted at this time, when public attention has been called to the subject, that it is wise to return to first principles, and to permit the local authorities of that city to control the further construction of the Aqueduct by their own officials, or by cittzen Commissioners of their own choosing, and not by Commissioners accepted either by the Governor and Senate or the Legislature.

This would give that city the beneat of the principles of "Home Rule," to which it is entitled, in refurence to its municipal affairs, and would relieve the Legislature from further responsibility in connection with the construction of a purely local improvement, and the passage of such a measure improvement, and the passage of such a measure would not of itself be a reflection upon any of the Commissioners, but a condemnation of a victor system of legislation, unadvisedly adopted, and which should not longer be sanctioned.

The repeal of the Amendatory Act of 1836 alone, leaving the act of 1838 untouched, would be a tacit approval of the latter act and not furnish an adequate remedy.

It would simply partially correct a mistake and still perpetuate a wrong system of legislation.

I am advised that many of the compliaints made against the Aqueduct management arise out of the actions of the old Commission, created under the act of 183, and before the reorganization of 1886 it was the original Commission that awarded the principal contracts alleged to be disadvantageous to New York City, and controlled their performance during a period of about eighteen months.

The fairest, best and most advisable course is to enact a measure abolishing the present Board and creating a new Commission to consist of the Mayor, the Comptroller, the Commissioner of Public Works and the President of the Board of Aldermen (who should be Commissioner example(10), and three citizens to be appointed by the slayor, who should constitute the remaining Commissioners.

The messages created rows in both houses, should constitute the remaining Commissioners.

The messages created rows in both houses, during which the Prison bill, which was to have been pushed forward, was lost sight of. Judge Yates and Mr. Sheehan, the Democratic leader, clawed one another for a while in the Assembly, and then the Republicans sprung an adjournment until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

In the Senate, meantime, another rumpus was on. Col. Murphy immediately on the reception of the message moved that that which referred to the Aqueduct should be referred to the Aqueduct should be referred to the New York delegation with instructions to report a bill providing that the Mavor, Competroller, Commissioner of Public Works, President of the Board of Aldermen and three citizens to be named by the Mayor shall constitute the Aqueduct Commission. Senator Fassett wouldn't have it that way.

Senator Fassett wouldn't have it that way.

After rehearsing a g eat yarn about the Aqueduct abuses, attacking the Governor and glorifying the committee, of which he is Chairman, he gave way to Canalman John Raines.

Senator Cantor later on gave the Republican leaders particular fits for a quarter of an hour.

Then there was a kissing match all around and the Senate adjourned after defeating Col. Murphy's proposition in order that the Republicans might be given another opportunity to cancus.

street, were arraigned in Tombs Police Court this morning.

Mr. Walsh stated that on May 23 the men in question were sent to Hoboken to do some work on a ship's cargo, but found that they could not get at it before the next day.

The men demanded exorbitant pay for the work, and when it was refused Coopers' Union No. 2 issued an order that Walsh's men should not go to work until the men's claims were settled.

Mr. Walsh had to pay them the amount demanded because he had work waiting which could not be neglected.

After Walsh and his foreman had given their evidence, the case was again adjourned until next Thursday afternoon.

"THERE IS A SCAB ABOUT."

Engineer Scratched His Hand and In Consequence Was Shot At.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] OSCEOLA, Ia., July 19.-As the east ound freight on the C., B. and Q. and a south-bound freight on the narrow-guage road met at the Junction yesterday the narrow-gauge engineer scratched his hand, which is said to signify "There is a scab about." The Q. engineer drew his revolver and fired at the narrow-gauge en-gineer, but missed his mark.

The narrow-guage man then ran his engine upon the crossing and had the Q. engineer arrested.

Swindling Discovered in the Brooklyn Navy-Yard.

A Clever Method of Defrauding the Government.

One Arrest Made and Others Likely to Follow.

At last one of the conspiracies to defraud the Government which have extended over a period of twenty years has been unearthed at the Navy-Yard and an ex-employee has been arrested. Other arrests, it is thought, will follow.

The man arrested is Daniel Laird, now a florist at East New York. He was dismissed from the yard where he had been employed for twenty-six years a week or so ago.

At that time he held the position of Superintendent of Mills, and besides acted as receiver of provisions. He was arrested late Wednesday night at the Broadway Park, where he was attending a picnic.

The arrest was made by United States Marshal Stafford in person. With him were Paymaster Robert W. Allen, of the United States Navy; Mr. J. Monroe Heiskell, specially octailed from the Department of Justice, and Deputy United States Marshal Biggart.

The man submitted quietly to arrest, but informed Marshal Stafford that if he made a statement it would shake the two cities from foundation to roof.

Whatever he had done he did as a subordi-

Whatever he had done he did as a subordinate and acting under orders.

The complaint on which the arrest was made is sworn to by Paymaster Joel Porter Leomis, general store keeper in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, who accuses Laird and "and John S. Mars" with conspiring to defraud the government by making it "pay more than the market price for goods, wares and merchandise" used for naval supplies, and preventing just competition in the matter of bids.

Laird is accused of sending an alleged standard sample of tea to Francis H. Leggett & Co. by C. J. Caughey for a bid, whereas the sample so shown was far better than the Government called for.

Leggett & Co.'s bid on this sample was of course more than that put in by the bidder who got the genuine sample.

The Government in Washington learned of the conspiracy three weeks ago, through several New York firms.

The warrant for Laird's arrest was issued yesterday, and he was held in $2,500 bail today

A ROW AMONG THE COUNTIES. The Hig Democratic Faction Threatened

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1888.

Local political circles are still excited over the rumored break among the leaders of the County Democracy. The chiefs of the Tammany Hall clan are not saying much, but they are thinking a great deal, and they evidently expect trouble in the County Demo cracy ranks.

One of the most prominent Tammany Hall leaders, who is a close, personal fmend of Commissioner Croker, said to-day to an EVENING WORLD reporter: "There is a big row in progress among the leaders of the County Democracy, and the reports that have been published about the lack of harmony in that organization are correct.

"Police Justice Maurice J. Power is losing

"Police Justice Manrice J. Power is losing his grip. The Grace element in the County Democracy has been clashing against the Power-Cooper crowd for more than a year. The Department of Public Works is no longer used as a County Democracy machine, or, in other words, the politics of the department are not run as they were under the late Hubert O. Thompson.

"Then there are many prominent County."

Then there are many prominent County "Then there are many prominent County Democrats who say that if they have to submit to a boss they might as well return to Tammany Hall, where there is less bossism than there is in the County Democracy.

"These men left the Wigwam because they thought the County Democracy would be a free-will and distinct home-rule organization, and they have at last found out that Judge Power is a bigger boss than John Kelly everwas.

"Oh, yes, the Counties are being broken up. You may prophesy that Commissioner Purroy and Edward Kearney are no longer in the councils and that they in all probability will make a jump. Purroy is preparing a statement severing his relations with the Counties.

'Look out for a break among the leaders who were placed in effice by Grace. You know that Grace and Power have been against each other for a long time. There is fun ahead I tell you."

There is no doubt that if the doors of the

There is no doubt that if the doors of the Wigwam were thrown open it would receive a number of prominent recruits from the County Democracy.

If Commissioner Purroy should re-enter Tammany Hall he would probably enter as a sub-lieutenant and become one of the leaders rather than one of the coterie of principal leaders such as Richard Croker, Hugh J. Grant, Judge McQuade, County Clerk Flock, Thomas F. Gilroy and James J. Martin, who generally get together to discuss the affairs of the machine.

There is not a leader of the Wigwam from

There is not a leader of the Wigwam from Commissioner Croker to Alderman Divver who is not in favor of Tammany Hall nominating a straight ticket. Commissioner Croker is in favor of a straight ticket and he not only believes that the Tammany Hall ticket will win, but believes that a three-cornered fight will bring out the Democratic vote and help the national and State tickets.

Commissioner Croker may not say in an interview that he is in favor of a faction fight this year, but he is in favor of it all the same, and unless there should be influence from Washington and Albany brought upon him Tammany Hall will not unite with the Counties.

It is but fair to say that the County Democracy leaders who are true to their organization are laughing at the stories about want of harmony in their faction.

"I am in favor of a union. I think there are several men they could unite on. If there is no union Herman Oelrichs would be a good candidate for the County Democracy.

The woman was Mrs. Sophia Levy, wife of John J. Levy, of 21 West Fiftieth street. She was about sixty-three years of age. She was not dead when the officer found her, but

To Assisstant District-Attorney Macdona Officer McCabe said that Duffy made no re-sistance but acted like a dead man. He asked him no questions about the accident. He turned his prisoner over to Koundsman Churchill, of the Second Precinct, and ran to the station to summon an ambulance. Coming back he took Duffy to the station, three blocks away and the officer identified him as his prisoner, and said Duffy said at the station that he couldn't help the accident. He didn't see Mrs. Levy in time. He put on his brake, but it was too late.

Then ex-Assemblyman House took up the witness. He asked George W. Connor, of the Twenty-third Street Railway Company, to stand up. Mr. Connor arose and Mr. House asked the witness:

"Was not this man at the scene of the accident when you reached it, and didn't he tell Duffy to say nothing, that he was attorney for the company and would stand by him?"

Officer McCabe said that was all true, and ead was lying on the north rail.

To Mr. Macdona the officer said he did not know the name of the boy who informed him Officer McCabe said that was all true, and then Mr. House introduced a diagram showing that the juggernaut was going west, and that at the time it ran down Mrs. Levy it was opposite 269 West Twenty-third street.

Then to cross-questions, Dr. Costales said that the driver had the reins in his right hand, and that that hand also rested on the brake. His left hand was extended as if in the change slot in the car door, and his back was t-wards the horse. He was apparently making change for a passenger.

Mr. House, in his character of counsel for the railway company, tried to show that Dr. Costale's view of the accident was not good, as he was in his window, eighteen feet above the surface of the street and 100 feet from the accident, but the witness was clear in his answers.

To Juror Minster the witness admitted that he was no judge of distances, but that his eyesight was good and that he saw the acci-dent with a clear vision, unobstructed by anything.

The driver was looking into the bobtail car, making change, and his back was to the car, making change, and his back was to the horse. The coal wagon was abreast of the car horse, going the same way. Mrs. Levy evidently became confused when she found that she could not reach the north curb.

Dr. Costales said Driver Duffy stopped the car as quickly as could be done, and that in his opinion he was not blameworthy in the matter, as his back was turned in the performance of his duty.

Another Anarchist Sensation in

The Course A Plot to Avenge the Deaths of the "Martyrs."

How the Anarchists' Avengers Were to Proceed.

MORE ARRESTS LIKELY TO BE MADE

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

CHICAGO, July 19.-Another intense sensetion in the Anarchist cases was caused to-day by the confession of Frank Chebowa, who, with Hronek and Chepak, couspired to murder Judges Gary and Grinnell and Inspector Bonfield.

The confession was made to Inspector Bon-field himself, who last night visited the three prisoners, accompanied by two Bohemians in his service. Chebowa said that Hronek had unfolded his plans for revenge and had told of a bomb which he (Hronek) had invented. It was small-no larger than a baseball-and was to be loaded with dynamite and bits of broken glass. It was denied by Chebowa that the plot was to murder the judges and the Inspector. That is, he heard of no such definite scheme. They were called upon, as was Capt. Schack, and he understood that he was to pay more attention to the Captain than to any one else.

There was no concerted plan of action. It made he and two others were to be informed by Hronek just what they were to do in the way of avenging the death of the martyrs. About July 1 he was visited by Hronek, who brought him two bombs of the broken glass variety and two stiens of dynamite, from which he was to make bombs of gaspipe after the usual pattern. The other two men were also supplied with bombs and dynamite. He had the stuff in his house for about a week, and then got so afraid that it would be discovered that he made away with it by throwing it down a closet. This was the substance of the confession. It is much more in detail and covers about thirty closely printed pages.

Chebowa has agreed to give his testimony in open court, where it will corroborate the other evidence secured by the Inspector

The two other men are still at large, but may be arrested at any time.
